

Meeting of the Max Scheler Society of North America

Call for Papers

The Max Scheler Society of North America invites members of the international community of scholars to participate in their biannual meeting. This year's meeting will convene in conjunction with the meeting for the Central Division of the American Philosophical Association, Feb. 15-18, 2012 at Palmer House Hotel in Chicago, IL.

The intent of the society and the meeting is to foster a critical discussion of Max Scheler's work and its broader philosophical significance. Papers working to show the relevance of Scheler's thought as it pertains to present philosophical discourse are encouraged.

Participants will have about 25 minutes to present their work and hence papers should be no more than 3500 words in length. Though completed papers are preferred, abstracts of at least 500 words in length will also be considered. Deadline for submission is November 1, 2011.

All submissions can either be sent electronically or via post to the contact information given below. All papers and abstracts should have a separate cover sheet with name and contact information. Notification of acceptance will be sent out by December 1.
